Faculty Fellowships

Application Materials Due November 30, 2018

The Public Policy Lab (PPL) supports Faculty Fellows and their scholarship addressing either public policies themselves or social conditions and processes with implications for public policy. We welcome scholars using a wide variety of methodological approaches. Faculty Fellows are appointed for one academic year and receive a one-course workload reduction in one semester of the year. Fellows join a diverse cohort of scholars in an interdisciplinary forum for discussion of contemporary policy issues. Faculty Fellows present their work publicly in the PPL Colloquia Series and, alongside our Research Team Fellows and Graduate Fellows, participate in our on-going PPL Fellowship Workshop in which participants present work in progress and provide feedback on each other's written work. Faculty Fellows are required to write an external grant application in support of their research and will receive grant-writing support from the College of Liberal Arts (CLA) Office of Research.

Eligibility: PPL's Faculty Fellowships are open to all tenured and tenure-track faculty in the College of Liberal Arts. Applicants must be working on a policy-oriented research project and be able to participate in the regular PPL Fellowship Workshop by reading other participants' work, attending sessions to provide feedback, and presenting one's own work.

Application Procedure: Applications for Faculty Fellowships are due on November 30, 2018. Materials will be reviewed by an interdisciplinary committee of CLA faculty. Applicants must submit:

1. A current C.V.
2. A project statement (3 to 4 double-spaced pages, not including bibliography) describing your project and its policy relevance. You should also include a description of an identified grant opportunity you will pursue during the fellowship and the application deadline.

3. A confidential letter of support from your department chair agreeing to a course release during the award year (emailed to PPL@temple.edu). Please note, the Dean makes final approval of course releases based on personnel needs.

All materials must be submitted to goo.gl/YrEZG8 by the application deadline.
